HARRY K. THAW IS BACK IN U. S. LINES

IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS DEPORT HIM INTO VERMONT THIS MORNING.

MAY NOW BE IN NEW YORK

Conflicting Messages Leave Doubt as To Whether He is in Hands of N. Y. Officials or Free.

Coaticook, Can., Sept. 10—Special to Telegraph—Harry K. Thaw was rushed to the Vermont border line this morning after being ordered deported by the immigration officials. This action was taken in the face of the order of the King's bench setting Thaw's trial on habeas corpus writ for September 15.

Taken to N. Y.?

Averill, Vt., Sept. 10—Special—Harry K. Thaw was brought here today by E. Blake Robertson, a Canadian official, and dumped. Thaw was immediately picked up by an auto in waiting and whisked southward, presumably to New York state.

Thaw is Free?

Another dispatch says that Thaw is in Vermont and is free. It reads: Montreal, Ont., Sept. 10—Special—Harry K. Thaw is at Norton Mills, Vt., absolutely free. No New York state officials were on hand when the order for his deportation was executed.

Colebrook, N, H., Sept. 10—Special—Harry K. Thaw, after three hours of freedom on Vermont soil, was placed under arrest here by Sheriff Drew.

Thaw had been picked up by newspaper men's auto when dumped across the line by the Canadian officials and was seeking to escape when caught. He was placed in jail.

STOLEN HORSE HAS NOT BEEN DISCOVERED

LOCAL AUTHORITIES ARE ALSO ASKED TO LOOK FOR MISSING WOODSTOCK HORSE.

The Dixon and Lee county authorities have been asked by the Woodstock police to watch for John Sproul, about 24 years of age,, who is alleged to have stolen a horse from a pasture near that city yesterday and who is thought to be on his way from Woodstock to Quincy. He is said to have ridden away on a horse which is described as a bay mare weighing about 1000 pounds, with a ringbone on the left hind foot Sproul is about five feet, four or five inches in height, weighs about 140 pounds and when last seen wore a blue serge suit and a blue cap. He is smooth shaven.

Stolen Horse Not Found.

No trace has been found of the horse and buggy stolen from the D. C. Fruenderberg farm near Ohio Sunday afternoon, although the officers have investigated several clews.

$800 IN OSTRICH FEATHERS STOLEN AT JOLIET

Joliet, Sept. 10—$800 worth of ostrich plumes were stolen in a well planned burglary from one of the department stores in Joliet. The theft was discovered when clerks opened the store today.

Evidently there were two or more persons in the band, one of whom the authorities believe was a woman. The selection of the most expensive plumes from a large stock just received evidenced the most careful discrimination.

It is believed the looters escaped on an early C. & A. train. Police in Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City were notified.

STARS TO STERLNIG.

The Dixon Stars will go to Sterling Sunday to meet their ancient rivals, the West Ends, and the following Sabbath will go to Rockford where they will play the Athletics at the league park.

INSPECT OREGON STREET FLUSHER

DIXON OFFICIALS TO INSPECT AN APPLIANCE MADE THERE.

The members of the city council will go to Oregon tomorrow as the guests of the Etnyre Engine company to inspect the street flushers made by that concern. There is no doubt the city will purchase a flusher for use on the brick pavements of the city next spring, for by that time the great amount of paving laid out by the board of local improvements will have been completed and a modern street cleaning device will be needed.

In all cities where there is much pavement a flusher is now in use, the sanitary conditions demanding such device. By the use of a flusher, which throws water onto the bricks with great force, all refuse and dirt is washed off into the gutters and sewer, and as the machines are used several times during the week the result is clean and sanitary pavements.

Will Visit Camp.

The committee could not complete their heavy work as quickly as was expected and accordingly the board could not reconvene until almsot 4 o'clock this afternoon. The members of the board will visit Camp Hope near Grand Detour this evening or tomorrow, to look over the manner in which the convict road labor is conducted.

HARD WORK IS ORDER OF DAY AT CAMP

LITTLE NEWS COMES FROM THT ROAD CAMP SINCE ACTIVITIES BEGAN.

Work is the slogan of Camp Hope now and as a consequence but little of news interest is occurring at the camp of the honor men at Grand Detour, who are giving Illinois its first convict road labor. Plenty of tools have been secured and the men are digging into the task which confronts them with a vim that promises some decided changes in the landscape of the big hill within a few weeks, another marked piece of work being accomplished yesterday.

All of the trees and brush are to be cleared off of the road marked for improvement before any further work is done and it is not likely the grading will commence before the first of next week.

DISTRICT MUST PAY PUPILS' WAY TO SCHOOL

A law passed by the last legislature and approved by the governor June 26, 1913, is effective now and places a new construction upon the education of children residing in the districts where high schools are not operated. The old law which provided for the education of children in these districts not having the high schools has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court and the new act makes it mandatory upon the district to pay the tuition of such high school pupils as reside in the district.

The new law provides that tuition can be paid out of any funds on hand not otherwise appropriated or a special fund which may be appropriated for the purpose

N. D. RESIDENTS WANT ARCS BACK

CLAIM INCANDESCENTS ARE BUT FEEBLE SUBSTITUTES AT RAILROAD CROSSING.

Residents of North Dixon are kicking most vociferously because the arc lights at Galena avenue and Fellows street, the I. C. Galena avenue crossing and the North Dixon depot have been taken out, by direction of the city council and smaller incandescent lights have been substituted. They maintain that in each of these places a much stronger light than that provided by the incandescent lamps is necessary, and that the action of the council has taken every arc light from that side of the river. The matter will doubtless be presented to the council at some future meeting.

Visiting at the Klossowski home are their son William and wife from Chicago, and Mrs. Weightman and granddaughter, Miss Florence Burgis, of New Orleans.

MANY SAW OUTDOOR PICTURES AT "Y."

OUTDOOR VIEWS ARE A GREAT ATTRACTION AND VALUABLE TO PUBLIC.

About 250 people enjoyed the free outdoor stereopticon pictures of Washington, D. C., and Virginia at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, and the interest shown bespoke a large attendance for succeeding affairs of this kind. The first of this feature, which will be shown in the gymnasium, will be 3000 feet of moving pitures on the making of a watch. EIGENMAN WILL FIGHT REMOVAL

FREEPORT SHERIFF RETURNS WITHOUT RECENTLY INDICTED WATERLOO MAN.

WILL TAKE FURTHER ACTION

Former Manager of Ice Company Says Charges Against Him Were Not Made in Good Faith.

Freeport Journal: Demanding a hearing on his extradition from Iowa W. P. Eigenmann, former manager of the Freeport Artificial Ice & Cold Storage company, wanted here on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, is still at Waterloo. Eigenmann is out on bail of $100 and his hearing on the requisition papers will be taken up by Gov. Carroll of Iowa at DesMoines on next Monday.

Sheriff Stewart, who left Saturday for Springfield, where Gov. Dunne signed the papers thence to DesMoines where Gov. Carroll was interviewed, returned this morning without his man.

At DesMoines the sheriff learned Eigenmann had retained three attorneys. Gov. Carroll had made arrangements for a weeks trip and the case was continued until Monday, when Attorney Manus and Sheriff Stewart will go to DesMoines to attend the hearing.

Sheriff Stewart said he did not know why Eigenmann was fighting the case, but he had been informed by attorneys that Eigenmann claimed the indictment was not brought in good faith and was merely to bring him to Freeport to settle claims against the company. Therefore he decided to fight his extradition.

Friday Eigenmann told the sheriff over the long distance telephone he would come here without a fight if the proper papers were obtained but when the sheriff reached DesMoines he was informed differently. Eigenmann was not there, his counsel appearing before the governor to object to his removal.

States Attorney Manus said today he would fight the case and was positive Gov. Carroll would grant the request when the facts were put before him. It is probable Eigenmann will fight extradition and the entire case will be laid before the governor unless he recognizes Gov. Dunne's papers.

While the hearing is pending Eigenmann will be under $1000 bonds, given by friends in Waterloo. Attorney Tiffany has been retained by Eigenmann to look after his interests here.

Dixon—W. P. Eigenmann is well known in Dixon and for several years was manager of the Dixon Artificial Ice company, giving up that position last spring.

OFFERS HIS AID.

Phil Miller of this city, who has been engaged for several years in marketing products that increase soil production, appeared before the Lee county board of supervisors this morning and told them the land at the County Home was not producing what it should and declared that he could show the board members ways in which the production could be increased greatly, by the application of certain natural and manufactured preparations Mr. Miller explained that he had lived in Lee county so long he took a great deal of interest in conditions here, and offered to give his time and experience to the county in the work of bringing the land at the County Home to a high state of cultivation. His offer was referred to the County Home committee and Superintendent Clyde Wicher.

Mr. Miller cited DeKalb county as an example of what can be done and stated that Bureau county was taking an interest in the work. DeKalb county has turned its land over to a soil expert for him to work on and is appropriating funds to carry on the work.

A Dream Is an Enthusiasm.

Even when a man's efforts are to prove vain he is sustained in doing them by a sort of dream or illusion. If he could see the uselessness of the end he proposes to himself he could not go on, but his dream carries him on unhesitatingly. Confidence is the mother of action, and whatever sustains it is as important as the action itself. A dream is an enthusiasm. No analysis can murder an enthusiasm unless it is already sick. You cannot weaken a vital instinct that has not already become anaemic, by anayzing it. If you have the vital instinct, the enthusiasm, the high hope of lige, which leads you to dream dreams that are realizable, you will not be afraid of looking at them front and back.

Why Lawn Is Called Lawn.

Years ago the Dutch excelled all other peoples in the bleached linens they sent forth. That was in a time, of course, when bleached linen was considered a luxury. The Dutch gained their fame for this excellence because they had a wonderful system of treating the muslin to make it white. To begin with, they treated it to bleaches and acids of various sorts, and then they placed it on bleaching lawns, or greens, where it lay at intervals from March to September. The white material thus produced took the name of the lawns whereon it was bleached—at least so goes the story.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH ERUPTION

Spread Over Entire Face. Itched and Burned Terribly. Heavy White Crust. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Made Complete Cure.

810 East Elm St., Streator, Ill. — "A running sore broke out above my right eye, which spread over my entire face. It started as a small pimple. I scratched it open and the contents of this small pimple ran down my face. Wherever this ran a new sore appeared. They itched and burned terribly; I couldn't touch my face it burned so. It disfigured my face terribly and I couldn't be seen for everyone was afraid of it. It looked like a disease of some kind; it was all red and a heavy white crust on it. Everybody kept out of my way, afraid it would spread. I lost rest at night and I couldn't bear to have anything touch my face, not even the pillow. I had to lie on the back of the head. I was always glad when morning came so I could get up. It was extremely painful.

"I used ——— salve with small results. At last I thought of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I commenced using them. I used the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, one twenty-five-cent cake of Cuticura Soap and a half box of the fifty-cent size of Cuticura Ointment. It took three weeks to complete the cure." (Signed) Miss Caroline Miller, Apr. 30, 1913.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

DAIRY FACTS

MODERN DAIRY HOUSE

Inside Arrangement and Appearance of Building Shown.

Size Can Be Varied According to Requirements, but Adjustment Is Especially Good—Vestibule Is Needed.

The accompanying drawings show the inside arrangement and the outside appearance of an excellent dairy building for a market milk dairy. The size can be varied according to the requirements, but the arrangement is especially good, says the Farm and Home. The building should be connected with the dairy barn by a covered vestibule. This vestibule should have double doors to prevent the passing of dust from the cows into the milk room.

The milkers bring the milk into the weighing room, where it is weighed and emptied into a receiver, a. From this it passes into a mixer, b. This insures the mixing of the milk from all the cows of the herd, which is quite a necessary thing in supplying milk to the city trade.

The milk is bottled on the table, c. A separator, n, is for separating any surplus. At d is the refrigerator and at e a cooling tank. If there is ice on the farm it may be used in the refrigerator, but if there is none, a pipe running from a good well into the tank, e, will be sufficient for cooling the milk. The hot water and steam are furnished by a boiler, j; l is a tank for washing bottles and utensils and h is a bottle washer; f is a sterilizer for sterilizing the milk utensils, and g is a Babcock tester; m is a rack on the outside of the buildings for sunning pails and cans.

DAIRY NOTES

Abuse will never encourage the cow to make the greatest milk flow.

Alfalfa hay is about the best roughage that can be given the cow.

The use of a dairy thermometer means fewer churning troubles in winter.

High prices should not tempt the dairy farmer to part with his best cows.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

The line of distinction so often obscured between graft and opportunity gets four people into a fearful mess in Fine Feathers which H. H. Frazee willpresent at the opera house tonight. The play comes direct from the Cort theatre, Chicago and the Astor theatre, N. Y., where it ran all last season.

It is a story of how a woman's love of finery twisted her viewpoint so she could not see where opportunity leaves off and graft begins, and Eugene Walter, the author has told it in a masterful manner. Much may be written of the play, its philosophy and the emotions it arouses.

The story centers around a young chemist and his wife who are making an uphill fight against adversity with a meagre salary until a business man, a sort of high financier, walks into their lives. He proposes what he terms an opportunity to the husband. It is a scheme to defraud the government by using an inferior brand of cement in fulfilling a dam contract. The wife views it as does the financier, as opportunity. To the husband it presents itself as graft. The wife carried away by the thoughts of what the money will buy, prevails upon her husband to participate in the fraud. He does so, not with changed viewpoint, however, but because of his love for her.

A JOY RIDE IN EGYPT.

The lines, "A Joy Ride in gypt," printed in the Evening Telegraph a short time ago, came to the eye of Mrs. Olyette Ellis, poetess, and once the teacher of Ella Wheeler Wilcox. For years she has been trying to keep peace between the two fighting Hash Men. In reply to the Joy Ride she contributes the following pathetic sonnet. We reprint the Joy Ride to preserve the connection

A Joy Ride in Egypt

(By J. A. Lloyd, author of Home Made Hash," alias the Dixon Hash Man, alias Dixon's Mark Twain, alias etc., etc.

(Lines in reply to an invitation to joy-ride in southern Illinois, alias Egypt.)

Jessie is a widow fair
Living way down south somewhere;
And she often rides afar
In her rapid choo-choo car.
Oft from hill to hill she jumps,
Heeding not the jolts and bumps.
Forward lies the jiggling scene,
Rearward smells burnt gasoline.
Onward like a streak of light,
Scaring everything insight
Frightened hens fly like a lark,
Dogs don't even stop to bark;
Terrorized the children feel,
Pigs, run over, lose their squeal;
Passing farmers with a "bing,"
They all swear 'Gol darn that thing
Driving thus o'er hill, through dell.
Jessie rushes on, pell mell.
Jessie, Jessie, stop you must,
Raising such a cloud of dust;
Or you will—heed what I say,
Break your little neck some day.
Or your gasoline will burst,
With you flying upward first,
And you'll lose your Easter hat—
Jessie, Jessie, think of that
When the evening sun has croaked,
And the grass with dew is soaked,
Then your light goes flashing by,
Like a comet in the sky.
Though you are a Lulu-bird,
Flying thus is quite absurd.
Some sad day, all in a rage,
Cops will put you in a cage.
Then no more will shine your eyes,
Like twin diamonds in the skies.
Then you'll show your temper right.
Scolding, scoffing through the night.
Also you will rant and rail,
Just because you cant get bail;
And if cops find me about,
I shall have to bail you out.
This will happen, well I know,
Jessie, Jessie dear, go slow,
Or you'll end your swift career—
None but me to drop a tear.
Listen Jessie, drop that Fred.
He's too old, and scar, and dead
Spill him out and wreck his bean,
Poison him with gasoline.
Then we'll joy-ride you and I,
'Neath the moon up in the sky.
Take me out in something slow;
Bring me back same as we go,
Or I'll not joy-ride with you.
I'll be dog-goned if I do.

To the Wounded Hashan

(By Olyette Ellis, Author of "Autumn Leaves.")

Ah, ha! friend, at last you're hit!
Well, I'd been expecting it.
And had thought I ought to say:
"Oh, beware of widows gay."
But our friendship was so new,
That I feared you'd misconstrue
Words I spoke from candid mind,
And think I had an ax to grind.
Now I know I missed the chance,
Your good fortune to advance.
Duty shirked forever brings
Sorrow on its laggard wings.
Useless now for me to tell
Of the wiles I know so well.
But I really can not see,
How you can so blinded be.
There's no "Fred," with slender ring,
'Round her pathway hovering.
That's a pigeon on a stool,
Way off there in Liverpool.
He's a myth of thinnest air
Over which you tear your hair.
Just believe these words I write,
You're the only "Fred" in sight.
Go joy-riding, if you will,
She'll not jump from hill to hill;
You'll not need to hold your breath.
She'll not joy-ride you to death.
But will make the auto go
Very, very slow.
And the moon-man in the sky
Will look down with winking eye,
And declare: "Some one is sold,"
When he sees your ring of gold (!)
Any worn out ring will do—
Quick she'll say "Uh huh" to you
But, my friend, since thus you're taken,
There's one way left to save your bacon.
In Mammoth Cave, which you well know,
Get lost again with all your woe.
Crawl in there and none will follow
Tho' this old Earth is big and hollow.
Fly when Lulu birds sing—
Goo-goo eyes much trouble bring.
Seek the caverns darkest hold.
Stay there till you are wise and old.
Heed this counsel: "Oh, beware
Of each widow's artful snare.
Shun the widow. Count the cost—
Better in a cave be lost.
Better let that Jessie go.
Better be a little slow."

An Interesting Word About Fabrics

All styles indicate a return to the feminine—the skirt of even the most severe tailor-made has a suggestion of drapery and everything tends toward the elaborate, even for street and morning wear. The fabrics themselves reflect the desire for dressier costumes and serges and worsteds are supplanted by materials that are so soft and supple as to drape gracefully.

The beauty and novelty of the new wool Ratines and Matelasse, developed in delightful effects, as well as the charming Jacquard, have won unlimited enthusiasm. The Cheviots, the loose woven Etamine Cheviots and many recently developed rough novelty materials are high in favor.

Let us show you all these charming new fabrics as Bischof uses them this season. You will find these graceful draperies exceedingly becoming. The moment you try these suits on, you see how noticeably they give you the fashionable silhouette.

REPORT VERIFIES HUGE CORN LOSS

Government Upholds Trade Estimate of Shortage Due to Drought.

INCREASE IN WHEAT ONLY

Heavy Decline Is Indicated in the Crops of Oats, Barley and Potatoes—Worst Year Since 1901.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Sensational losses in corn, a record yield of wheat and the third largest crop of oats were features of the government September crop report issued by the department of agriculture. The figures are a remarkable exact verification of the popularly accepted trade advices.

The government report of August showed a loss as compared with the crop of 1912 of 453,000,000 bushels, but this loss was swelled by 321,000,000 bushels by the latest report, thus making the shortage as compared with last year 774,000,000 bushels. Adding a loss of 10,000,000 tons of hay and the known shortage in pasturage, meadows and fall forage in general, and the appalling importance of the situation begins to be appreciated.

Surplus States Cut to Four.

Nevertheless, the seven so-called corn surplus states have been reduced to four this year, and even in these the northern or less droughty areas are not as a rule up to ordinary, and from this they taper off into medium to very poor crops.

Of the loss of 774,000,000 bushels in the total crop 740,000,000 bushels are in the seven surplus states which immediately surround Chicago. Oklahoma has been hard hit, Kansas approaches a total failure, Nebraska will raise about half of a normal crop, Missouri not much over one-third. Southern Iowa and southern Illinois have suffered severely. Nevertheless, the two latter states, with Indiana and Ohio, remain the only ones of the seven that can still be claimed as surplus producers.

1,092,000,000 Bushels Promised.

The seven states have this year a promise of 1,092,000 bushels, against actual production last year of 1,832,000,000 bushels. The present promise for the entire United States, which produces three-fourths of the corn of the entire world, is 2,351,000,000 bushels, against 3,125,000,000 bushels in 1912.

The shortage in the oats crop is 353,000,000 bushels as compared with the yield of last year, the crop promise now being 1,065,000,000 bushels, against 1,418,000,000 bushels last year.

The shortage in the potato crop is 96,000,000 bushels, the indicated yield being 325,000,000 bushels, against 421,000,000 bushels for 1912.

There is a shortage in barley of 56,000,000 bushels, the indicated yield being 168,000,000 bushels, as against 224,000,000 bushels last year.

Wheat Alone Shows Gain.

The wheat chop alone of the important food crops of the country shows a gain over the previous year, entirely due to the enormous winter wheat yield which matured before the long drought. The spring wheat crop is 87,000,000 bushels short of last year, but winter and spring combined make the greatest crop ever produced in the United States. This total of 754,000,000 bushels compares with 730,000,000 bushels last year and 748,000,000 bushels in 1901, which was the largest crop ever previously produced.

The next crop report will be issued Wednesday, October 8. Full revision of all the crop estimates will be made in December.

TARIFF MEASURE PASSED BY SENATE

Senators O. K. Simmons-Underwood Bill by Vote of 44 to 37.

NOW GOES TO THE HOUSE

Only Perfunctory Conference Remains—Document Expected to Be Signed by President Wilson Before October 1.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill passed the senate on Tuesday by 44 to 37.

The bill now will go to the house and probably will be sent to conference this week.

Vice-President Marshall announced as conferees on the bill Senators Simmons, Shively, Johnson and Williams, Democrats; Penrose, Lodge and La Follette, Republicans.

The big fights in conference will be over the "cotton futures" section and the senate proposals for a graduated income tax in place of the house provision. Most of the other senate reductions of duties will go into effect, as will the free listing of cattle and wheat. The conference work should be completed within two weeks and the measure passed and signed by President Wilson before October 1.

Among the articles placed on the free list were raw wool and sugar at the end of three years; cattle, sheep, meats, wheat, flour, print paper valued at less than 2½ cents a pound, wood pulp, pig iron, steel ingots, blooms and slabs, cast iron pipe, photographic and moving picture films, exposed, steel rails, cement, milk and cream, ferro-manganese, lard, flax, hemp, jute, eggs, corn, cornmeal, cash registers, sewing machines, type setting machines, lumber and hair of the angora goat.

Aims to Prevent Gambling.

The senate placed in the bill a tax on cotton futures, aimed to prevent gambling. It provides for a tax of one-tenth of one cent per pound on all sales of cotton futures, with a refund when actual delivery is made.

The senate amended the house bill by striking out the anti-dumping clause which would prevent foreign manufacturers from dumping into the American market a surplus of their goods at lower prices than are charged for the goods abroad. The senate also struck out of the bill the provision which would give a reduction of five per cent. in all the duties charged upon goods imported in American bottoms. It inserted a provision which prohibits lawyers from taking customs appeals cases on the contingent fee plan, in an effort to reduce the amount of litigation over the customs.

In the chemical schedule the senate has made a great number of amendments, the reductions and increases being about equally divided. In the glass and earthen ware schedule, cement, upon which the house placed a duty of five per cent. ad valorem, was placed on the free list. The senate adopted a new classification for mica, making the duties specific instead of ad valorem and slightly increasing the rates.

Pig Iron on Free List.

The house had a duty of eight per cent. on pig iron, and the senate put it on the free list. The house also had a duty of eight per cent. on iron slabs, blooms, etc., and the senate added them to the free list. The senate reduced the duties of automobiles valued at less than $1,500. It also reduced the duty on motorcycles from 40 per cent. ad valorem to 25 per cent. Slight increases in the duties on zinc ores were made by the senate.

The same provisions for reducing the duty on sugar and for making sugar free at the end of three years as in the house bill, were retained by the senate, but an amendment was adopted providing that the new reduced duties shall not go into effect until March 1, 1914.

In the agricultural schedule, the senate free listed cattle and sheep, which the house taxed ten per cent. ad valorem. It reduced the duties on oats from ten cents a bushel, the house rate, to six cents. It reduced the duty on beefs from ten per cent. to five per cent. ad valorem, it reduced the duty on peas from fifteen cents to ten cents a bushel, and it placed wheat, which the house had taxed at ten cents a bushel, on the free list. The senate reduced the duty on zante currants from two cents per bushel to one cent.

The senate placed a duty of one-tenth of one cent a pound on bananas. They have always been free in the past.

The liquor schedule remained about the same, although the senate placed a tax of $1.19 per gallon on brandies used in the manufacture of wines.

The senate made slight increases in yarns and tops. It reduced the rates somewhat on cotton stockings. Many large reductions were made in the flax, hemp and jute schedule, including the free listing of flax, hemp and jute. In the wool schedule the senate reduced tops from fifteen per cent. ad valorem to five per cent., and on yarns from 20 per cent. to 15. Wool blankets valued at less than 40 cents per pound were put on the free list.

A proviso was adopted by the senate that the new duties on the manufacturers of wool should not go into effect until January 1, 1914. It also adopted a proviso that the free listing of raw wool should not take effect until December 1, 1913.

In the silk schedule, the senate changed almost entirely to specific rates from ad valorem rates of the house for the purpose of administration. Every effort was made not to increase the rates in this change.

The income tax section of the bill provides for an exemption of $3,000 with an additional $1,000 if a man or woman be married, and $500 additional for each minor child up to two. The rates then are to be one per cent. on all income from $3,000 to $20,000, two per cent. on all income from $20,000 to $50,000, three per cent. on all income from $50,000 to $75,000, four per cent. on all income from $75,000 to $100,000, five per cent. on all income from $100,000 to $250,000, six per cent. on all income from $250,000 to $500,000, and on all income in excess of $500,00 seven per cent.

President Lauds Party.

President Wilson, however, is confident currency reform will be passed at the present session. Last night he issued the following statement:

"A fight for the people and for free business which has lasted a long generation through has at last been won, handsomely and completely. A leadership and a steadfastness in counsel has been shown in both houses of which the Democratic party has reason to be very proud. There has been no weakness or confusion or drawing back, but a statesmanlike directness and command of circumstances. I am happy to have been connected with the government of the nation at a time when such things could happen and to have worked in association with men who could do them.

"There is every reason to believe that currency reform will be carried through with equal energy, directness and loyalty to the general interest. When that is done this first session of the Sixty-third congress will have passed into history with an unrivaled distinction. I want to express my special admiration for the devoted, intelligent and untiring work of Mr. Underwood and Mr. Simmons and the committees associated with them."

Commenting on the votes of Senators La Follette and Poindexter, the president expressed warm admiration for their "conscientious independence and courage." He had been hoping for the votes of progressive Republicans, and told some of his friends that aid of this kind outside of the party ranks was one of the concrete evidences that the Democratic party was progressive.

REPORT SETS OUT VIEWS

States Reform of Evils in Present System Is Sought—Republicans Ask Changes Be Made in the Document.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The administration currency reform bill, as approved by the Democratic caucus, was reported to the house from the committee on banking and currency by Chairman Glass. A voluminous report, including a lengthy technical discussion of the theory of the bill, accompanied the measure, setting forth the views of the Democrats on the committee.

The bill, as approved by the Democratic caucus, was reported to the house from the committee on banking and currency by Chairman Glass. Representative Hayes of California presented a report from the Republicans, criticising the measure and proposing various amendments.

Aim of Majority.

Reviewing the arguments against the so-called Aldrich plan outlined by the national monetary commission, and against all central bank plans suggested, the majority report said:

"Any effective legislation on banking must include the following fundamental elements:

"Creation of a joint mechanism for the extension of credit to the banks which possess sound assets and which desire to liquidate them for the purpose of meeting legitimate commercial, agricultural and industrial demands on the part of their clientele.

"Ultimate retirement of the present bond secured currency, with suitable provision for the fulfillment of government obligations to bondholders, coupled with the creation of a satisfactory flexible currency to take its place.

To Aid Foreign Trade.

"Provision for better extension of American banking facilities in foreign countries to the end that our trade abroad may be enlarged and that American business men in foreign countries may obtain the accommodations they require in the conduct of their operations.

"Beyond these cardinal and simple propositions the committee has not deemed it wise at this time to make any recommendation, save that in a few particulars it has suggested the amendment of existing provisions in the national bank act, with a view to strengthening that measure at points where experience has show the necessity of alteration."

PERRY SHOOT IS ENDED

Marksmen Are Given Banquet at Close of Tourney.

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 10.—With a banquet given in honor of the visiting teams, one of the most successful shooting tournaments ever held came to a close last night.

Foreign teams and individuals will take back with them world's championships, trophies and other prizes and they are naturally much pleased with the result of the matches. They have received many congratulations for their good work on the ranges.

Theodore Brentonia, representative of Germany, is very much pleased with his treatment here and desires to have the American shooters visit his country and take part in any of their international events.

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN MISSING

New York Congressman Vanishes From Brother's Home.

New York, Sept. 10.—Congressman Timothy D. Sullivan has been missing from his brother's home in Westchester county for nearly ten days, and the search made by his friends and relatives has failed to disclose trace of his whereabouts. Persons best acquainted with "Big Tim" can't even make a satisfactory guess as to where he has taken himself. Larry Mulligan, his half brother, laughs and jokes about the disappearance. However, underneath the joking and the optimism of the congressman's friends, there is a current of uneasiness lest all may not be well with him.

BRYAN SUES POLICE CHIEF

Secretary of State Alleges Official of Jacksonville, Fla., Kept Diamond

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 10.—The secretary of state and Mrs. W. J. Bryan filed suit against Chief of Police F. C. Roach for $100 damages for the detention of a $50 diamond ring, identified as the property of Mrs. Bryan and held by the local police department. The ring was either lost or stolen about a year ago and recovered by the police from a negro.

Priest Bars Split Skirt.

New Britain, Conn., Sept. 10.—Rev. H. T. Walsh of the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Mercy has announced that he will not give communion to any woman who approaches the altar railing in a slashed skirt of diaphanous garb. Moreover, he will not receive at his parachoial residence any woman who wears such gowns.

PROTECTING ODDS AND ENDS

Paper Covers as Good as Can Be Bought May Be Made at Home by the Clever Housewife.

The housekeeper uses all sorts of dishes—cups, tumblers, pitchers and tins—as receptacles for the left-overs that are inevitable in housework. The white of an egg, a little apple sauce, pieces of butter, half a tumblerful of cream—countless odds and ends have to be saved. Frequently they occupy a large part of the pantry crockery. Most of the improvised receptacles lack covers, yet it is important to protect the contents. Paper covers will do the work. They are light, clean and convenient, and once the knack is acquired are easy to make. Filter paper, such as chemists use, is the best for the purpose. It is inexpensive and so soft and tough that it can be folded several times without breaking.

Cut out a square piece twice the size of the top of the tumbler or dish to be covered. Clip off the four corners; then, with your left hand, hold the octagonal piece in place upon the tumbler. Roll the projecting edges of the paper inward and upward and press them against the outside of the tumbler or dish.

If you have made the cap correctly, you can easily remove it from any smooth-edged receptacle, such as a tumbler, and use it again and again.

SERVING CORN ON THE COB

Typical American Dish Requires Some Care in Its Proper Preparation for the Table.

There is no vegetable of which so much can be made as the typically American sweet green corn. Some persons insist that no dish is more delicious than corn on the cob, but there is a certain art which must be mastered if even this simple dish is to be well prepared. One way to boil it is to select thick, short ears and remove all of the husk excepting the inner layer. Strip that down and take off all the silk and cut out the grains that are dried or discolored. Tie the husk over the ear again and boil it 20 minutes in a deep covered pot, or 15 minutes if the ears are small. Then remove the string which holds the husk in place and serve either in the husks or without the husks on a folded napkin.

Another way to prepare corn on the cob is to remove the outer leaves and silk from six young ears and put them in a saucepan with just enough water to cover them. Add half a cupful of milk, half an ounce of butter and a pinch of salt. Cook for 20 minutes, covered tightly, and then serve. Remember that the sweetest ears are the freshest.

Boiled Bluefish.

Bluefish is always a palatable dish, but prepared in this manner it is even more delicious:

Ingredients:

Two pounds of good broiling fish.
Half a tablespoonful of butter.
One lemon.
Half a bunch of parsley.
Salt to taste.

Clean the fish properly, leaving small ones whole and cutting large ones in slices convenient to serve, or split in two parts, head to tail. Rub each piece with salt, inside and out, and leave to stand two hours before cooking. Wash each portion again, coat with butter and broil on each side over a moderate fire on a gridiron. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with parsley, slices of lemon and the red of radishes.

Green Gooseberry Jelly.

This is made almost precisely like cranberry jelly. Add 1½ cups of water to each pint of steamed and cupped berries and simmer gently until the berries break; then turn into a jelly bag and let drain over night. Measure the juice and add sugar in proportion of a pound to pint of juice. First boil the juice steadily for 15 minutes; add the sugar, warmed, and stir until it is dissolved; then let boil steadily for half an hour or until it will jell when dropped on a cold saucer. Skim well while boiling.

Testing Brooms.

Very few housewives know how to tell a good broom from a bad one.

When a new broom wears out quickly they blame the grocer and often refuse to buy another broom at the same store.

If, when they were buying one, they would test it, they would have no one but themselves to blame for a poor broom.

It should be tested by pressing it to the floor. If the straws spread out and bend it is a poor broom. If they remain solid it is a good one.

For Kitchen Shelves.

Instead of continually buying lace shelf paper, you will find it much cheaper in the end to buy coarse torchon lace the desired width, sew on a piece of tape, and tack to the shelf with small tacks. Whenever dirty, take off, wash and iron. This will last for years, and your pantry will always be fresh and attractive.

Shelves for precious china and glassware should have pads of felt to prevent chipping. When fragile plates must be piled one on another, a round piece of blotting paper placed between will save breakage.

Spanish Potatoes.

This dish is achieved by adding cream, butter and seasoning to mashed potatoes and then mixing with some canned pimentoes cut small and forced through a puree strainer. The whole should be well blended, then reheated and piled on serving dish.

DISHES OF COLD EGGS

WELCOME CHANGES FROM THE METHODS MOST IN USE.

Are Delicious Served in Aspic Jelly or Mayonnaise—Great Variety of Hard Boiled With Most Attractive Decorations.

If a poached egg is to be served cold, either in aspic jelly or masked with mayonnaise in a paper case or pastry shell, it is important that it should be properly poached. Let a bay leaf simmer in the water and add a tablespoonful of tarragon or plain vinegar. Unless the egg is poached in a ring to insure the white keeping its shape, cut the white with a round cooky cutter as soon as the egg is cold.

The making of the aspic jelly does not entail the work it formerly did, as the many canned and condensed beef stocks can be used, with the addition of extra seasonings and gelatine. A thin layer of the liquid jelly should be poured into a shallow enamel pan large enough to hold the necessary number of cold poached eggs. When the jelly begins to harden lay the nicely trimmed eggs at regular intervals, flat side down.

Pour a little of the liquid jelly over the surface of the eggs and arrange a circle of alternate capers and dots of pickled beet. Have four small triangles of cold tongue or thinly shaved lean ham placed at the outer edge, pointing toward the yolk. Make the decoration as highly colored as possible, choosing green peppers, caviare, truffles or pimento to make a good showing through the covering of aspic. Pour on the remaining liquid jelly and chill thoroughly.

Have ready either cases of paper or shells of plain pastry. Cut out the jellied eggs, using a cutter of a size to correspond with the case. Remove the eggs with a cake turner and place one in each holder. With a pastry tube pipe a border of mayonnaise around each.

Hard boiled eggs for cold service admit of great variety. They are served either whole or in halves and in either case the yolk may be removed and mixed with any preferred ingredient, then replaced as a stuffing.

When served whole the stuffed egg is masked with slightly stiffened mayonaisse so that it has the apearance of not having been cut. The elaborate decorations are imbedded in this outer covering and the whole thing mounted for serving in some attractive way.

A thin slice of Bermuda onion, one ring removed from the center, makes a sufficient hollow in which to set an egg and a thick slice of cucumber scooped out to form a little nest, is another bit of variety which is appetizing and pretty. Half an egg can be served in similar fashion, the stuffed yolk rounded well above the white and surrounded with a ring of closely set capers.

To Keep Greens Crisp.

Lettuce, celery, parsley, greens or any foliage vegetable may be restored to perfect crispness and freshness, however limp and wilted they may be, by first plunging them into cold water and allowing them to remain a few moments, then draining them off, leaving them practically dry. Then put them into an air-tight receptacle, leaving for several hours. One large pan turned over another pan of equal size is a satisfactory air-tight receptacle. To purify greens that are to be eaten raw, use a pinch of boric acid powder in the water in which they are to be washed.

To Remove Iron Rust.

Cream of tartar will remove iron rust. To take iodine stains from linen make a thick paste of ordinary starch and cover the stains, and then apply heat—either that of the sun or stove. For carbolic acid burn apply vinegar at once, and then make a poultice of stale bread and vinegar. This holds good for a burn from lye.

For Leather Furniture.

Boil half a pint of linseed oil and allow it to stand until nearly cold, then stir in a pint of vinegar. Stir until thoroughly mixed and bottle for use. When needed, shake the bottle well and pour a very little on a soft flannel, rubbing it well into the leather, turning the flannel as it gets dirty.

Keeping Butter.

For keeping butter cool in the hot weather, get some saltpeter, dissolve it in cold water and stand the butter crock in it so that the saltpeter water may reach well up the sides. Cover it with a wet cloth, the ends of which, resting in the saltpeter water, will keep it constantly moist.

Pineapple Salad.

Use two pineapples, shredding them and disposing of core. Put shredded fruit in glass dish and pour over it half a pint of powdered sugar mixed with tablespoonful of lemon juice. Let the salad stand for several hours before serving, so as to dissolve sugar. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

For Mending Overshoes.

When rubber overshoes split down the back, mend them by taking a piece of surgical tape and pasting it upon the inside of the heel.

To Keep Silver Bright.

Always put a lump of camphor into the drawer where silver is kept. It keeps the silver from tarnishing.

When the Game Was Called.

Casey announced to his wife, Ellen, that he was going to the ball game. All day he was gone. Night came, but no Casey to take his place at the head of the table. Midnight and no Casey. One o'clock—2 o'clock—3 o'clock—no Casey. As the 6 o'clock whistles began to blow Casey stumbled up the front stairs into the house and awakened his wife by his efforts to negotiate the stairs. She hopped out of bed and met her better half in the hallway. "Well?" said Mrs. Casey, determination written on her Amazon face. "Sal-rite, Illin," said Casey, weakly. "The game was called on account of daylight."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Coffee in South America.

Although the greater part of the world's coffee now comes from South America, there are some states in that country where it is scarcely used. In Argentina, for instance, only the foreigners ask for it. Hence it is classed as a luxury and commands a very high price. The natives drink "mate" or Paraguay tea. Among the lower classes this beverage is drunk as freely as beer in Germany or tea in England. After dinner in Argentina many housekeepers serve, instead of coffee, a basin of soup, which strangers find some difficulty in swallowing.

"Forcible Feeding" Not New.

The principal of a large public school recently invited one of his teachers to read the Scriptures at the opening exercises. The latter, glancing through the unfamiliar volume, found the first case of forcible feeding recorded. It was in the Book of Samuel, and Saul is shown as scared to the point of not eating when his seance with the Witch of Endor is ended. That good lady, together with the king's attendants, finally constrains him to eat good things she offers. The Douai version uses "force" in its description.

Do Not Inhale Dust.

It is safe to say that if a sample of dust be taken at random from any office, warehouse, shop, factory and this sample properly tested for germs the tubercle bacillus, or the germ of consumption, will invariably be found to be present in large numbers. Now, it is the inhalation of dry, germ-laden dust that is the commonest cause of consumption, so that anything that tends to stir up this dust and convey it to the mouth is literally "tempting Providence," especially in weakly and anemic persons with consumptive tendencies.

Mysteries of the Sea.

One of the mysteries of the sea, says Shipping Illustrated, has been solved by the finding of a bottle message describing the loss of the British steamer Nutfield, which disappeared eight years ago on a voyage from Mobile to Havre. The loss of the vessel is ascribed to the carrying of a deck load of timber. This dangerous practice, which makes a ship unstable in bad weather, should be prohibited by international agreement, say the journal quoted.

Shipping Young Chickens.

One-day-old chickens are being sent from Ireland to Berlin, Germany. Many chicken-breeders are abandoning the principle of selling eggs for hatching, but instead are supplying one-day-old chicks. One of the early experiments in dealing with the tiny birds was the sending of a batch involving a 36-hour journey with two cross sea shipments. All the birds arrived in strong, healthy condition. The boxes used are very simple, either of wood or cardboard, with holes for ventilation near the top.

ELEVEN FLYERS DIE

ZEPPELIN NAVAL CRAFT L.-1, WRECKED IN HURRICANE.

Captain Hanne, Who Commanded Vessel, Among Those Who Perished.

(Copyright, 1913, by Press Publishing Company, New York World.)

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Naval Zeppelin L-1, which was taking part in naval maneuvers at Heligoland, ran into a hurricane eighteen miles northwest of that place and was driven into the water and sunk before succor could arrive.

Five out of the crew of sixteen were saved. Lieutenants Wendt, Grimm and Leymann are known to be among those who were rescued. Among those known to have perished is Captain Hanne, who was in command of the L-1.

A report first reached Berlin that it was the L-2, the new naval Zeppelin, which started on a fifty mile cruise, that had met with destruction, but this later proved false.

Wireless Tells of Accident.

The destruction of the L-1 was reported to the wireless station at Hellgiland and the entire fleet rushed there and searched the spot where the vesesl sank, but heavy seas made sea rescue impossible.

Doctor Ringe, a German aviator, was killed while competing for a distance prize.

The airman ascended from the aviation field at Johannisthal. After flying a few miles his machine suddenly collapsed and fell from a height of 600 feet.

The autopsy showed Doctor Ringe, who was physically weak, was stricken with heart disease while in the air and in all probability was dead when the aeroplane began to fall.

The contest in which Doctor Ringe was competing was one of the first held under the provisions of the National aviation fund being raised by popular subscription.

Hale's First Watch.

The first watch was a small clock, of course. In 1477 Peter Hale, a clockmaker of Nuremberg, made a clock in the form of an egg, which could be carried in the pocket. The production of this cost a year's labor; it was considered one of the wonders of the world and valued by its maker at a price equal to $1,500 at the present time. And yet it required winding twice a day and varied an hour a day from the correct time. Hale probably invented the fusee spring, but the hairspring was the invention of Dr. Robert Hooke, an Englishman, in 1658, and Hooke was also the first to use the lever escapement, in 1666. The use of jewels for the bearings of the pivots was introduced about 1700, and the compensation balance was invented in 1767. There is no doubt, however, that Gerbet, who subsequently became pope as Sylvester II., did construct a wheel and weight clock at Magdeburg in 996. And within the next 300 years a number of tower clocks of great size and elaborate workmanship were set up in the churches of Europe and of England.

First Airman Honored.

A tablet has just been unveiled in the Smithsonian institution at Washington to the memory of Prof. Langley, who first constructed a heavier than air machine which "flew." He died before he saw his hopes realized in any practical manner, but it is undoubted that to his researches, discoveries and experiments we owe the aviation of today. This tribute is the more appropriate because Professor Langley was soundly abused by many so-called men of science in his day, who insisted that he was engaged in a wild-goose chase, that he was expending money of the institution to gratify personal whims, which could not possibly benefit mankind under the terms of the Smithson will.

Lawn Mowers Not Wanted.

An American manufacturer has sent a souvenir lawn mower, which is now on exhibition in this consulate general at Callao, Peru, says Vice-Consul Dreyfus. However, there is no demand for lawn mowers in Peru, owing to the nonexistence of lawns, due to the absense of rain. The souvenir lawn mower is greatly admired by all visitors to the office. It may interest the novelty trade in the United States that while several people remarked that the lawn mower could not be sold in Peru this souvenir lawn mower might find a ready sale in the novelty stores of Lima.

Cure for Heart Disease.

Sugar is a splendid medicine for the heart in certain diseases of this organ. In others, such as oedema, it has no effect. Dr. Stanley E. Denyer reports in the Lancet the cure of a woman of seventy-seven with "rapid, irregular, feeble pulse, cyanosis and attacks of paroxysmal breathing" by the administration of four ounces of lump sugar every twelve hours, gradually diminishing the dose, for several weeks.

Swallowing Capsules.

To those who find difficulty in swallowing medicine in capsules, the following will be found efficacious: Place capsule in the mouth, having the head slightly lowered. Sip a small quantity of water, lift the head and swallow. The capsule floats on top of the water and will slip naturally down the throat followed by the water.—Home Department, National Magazine for May.

TO ARREST MRS. PANKHURST

U. S. Immigration Officials to Question Militant.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Immigration authorities are not worried by the report that Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst has disappeared from Paris and may try incognito to enter the United States at some obscure port.

"She will not get by our men," said Commissioner General Caminetti. "Whether she is excluded or not she will have an opportunity to answer a few questions."

Whether the famous suffragette enters the United States will depend on whether the authorities consider her militant activity as "moral turpitude," under the exclusion law.

London, Sept. 10.—The Pall Mall Gazette suggests that the United States government might propose to exchange Mrs. Pankhurst for Harry Thaw.

MAY RECALL CASE OF JEROME

Magistrate Doubts if Jurist Had Right to Discharge Lawyer.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 10.—James McKee, the justice of the peace who signed the warrant for the arrest of William Travers Jerome, who was acquitted on a charge of gambling, said he was not entirely satisfied that Magistrate Mulvena of Sherbrooke had acted legally in presiding at the hearing, and that he (McKee) would consult counsel to determine whether the case could be reopened.

"I may call the case on Thursday, the time to which I adjourned it," said the justice.

"There is no case to call; it's all over; Mr. Jerome has been discharged," said A. C. Hanson, the joint crown prosecutor.

ACT MAY ABOLISH COURT

House Adopts Amendment to Bill Ousting Judges.

Washington, Sept. 10.—By a vote of 78 to 181 the house not only decreed the abolition of the commerce court, but adopted the Bartlett amendment to the urgent deficiency bill legislating the judges of that court out of office. The house passed a bill admitting free of duty all articles to be exhibited at the Panama exposition in San Francisco in 1915, and establishing copyright and patent regulations for articles that are brought to the exposition. The bill now goes to the senate.
